Aim of the study programme:

The main aim of the study programme is to train highly qualified philologists, able to compete in the job markets not only in Lithuania, but also in the EU; to provide them with the latest insights into literature and culture, to form professional competences in literature and culture critique and develop skills of scientific research; to provide research methods and train the students for practical skills of culture interpretation and text critique; to build professional values based on the ethics of Humanities; to train the students for professional internships in the fields of the history of literature and culture, sociocultural analysis, educational, scientific and cultural journalism, etc.

Study programme learning outcomes:

On having graduated the individual shall be able to analyse socio-cultural phenomena individually and in a team; to apply knowledge and principles of analysis in new multidisciplinary contexts; to apply norms and principles of professional and humanistic ethics; to navigate in the modern cultural and literary events and assess the latest phenomena in culture and literature; to act as an ambassador of the history of Lithuanian culture and literature in the world; to adhere to the principles of lifelong learning; to upgrade one's professional skills and knowledge; to study and research new ways of modern culture and ways and means of its dissemination.

Assessment methods:

The main form of evaluation is an examination. However, courses units may be evaluated by the pass/fail evaluation as well. Every course unit is concluded with either a written or written-oral examination or pass/fail evaluation. Student's knowledge and general performance during the exam are evaluated using grading scale from 1 (very poor) to 10 (excellent), or by pass or fail evaluation in the cases when pass/fail evaluation is foreseen as a final evaluation of the course unit.

Graduation thesis or/and final examinations:

On satisfactory completion of the studies a Master's thesis is defended. After a successful defence the student is awarded the qualification degree of Master in Philology.

Access to further studies:

Graduates from the Master's degree study programme are eligible for further Doctoral studies in Philology or any other field of Humanities.

Employability:

The graduates may be employed as critical analysts of literature and culture, as editors, publishers, managers of literature in the state media, cultural and scientific institutions, as well as in non-governmental and private organizations.
