Aim of the study programme:	Application of modern methods of translation/interpreting as well as state-of-the-art technologies in developing scholarly research abilities and professional translation/interpreting skills.
Study programme learning outcomes:	After completing MA studies in Translation, a post-graduate is able to analyse and synthesize a written and oral text, adequately transfer the content and form of a source text in a target language, use the most modern information technologies, lexicographic sources, find, analyse, evaluate and apply the necessary information and theoretical methods of translation in practical work and scholarly research activities.
Assessment methods:	The main form of evaluation is an examination. However, courses units may be evaluated by the pass/fail evaluation as well. Every course unit is concluded with either a written or written-oral examination or pass/fail evaluation. Student's knowledge and general performance during the exam are evaluated using grading scale from 1(very poor) to 10(excellent), or by pass or fail evaluation in the cases when pass/fail evaluation is foreseen as a final evaluation of the course unit.
Graduation thesis or/and final examinations:	Studies are concluded with the defense of an MA thesis.
Access to further studies:	Doctoral studies.
Employability:	A post-graduate can work as a professional interpreter or translator in European Union institutions, state institutions, private companies or translation/interpreting agencies, coordinate international projects, work as lecturers or reseachers in higher education institutions and research institutes.
Chair of the study Programme Committee:	Docentė Dr. Nijolė Maskaliūnienė
